

“Thoughts and Prayers” was written many years ago. The occasion now escapes me, having been superseded by so many other events, after which our elected and/or self-appointed leaders express sympathies that accomplish nothing, other than to absolve them of guilt or responsibility. It’s a poem of anger, grief, and abandonment.