

Extended Bio:

Ruvanee Pietersz Vilhauer grew up in Sri Lanka and lived in India, Thailand, Canada and Australia before settling in the United States. Her short fiction has been broadcast on BBC Radio 4, and published in Stand, Kaleidoscope and Literary Mama. An essay is forthcoming in the Yale Journal for Humanities in Medicine. She won the Commonwealth Short Story Prize in 2004, and was a runner-up for the same prize in 1997. She has also had nonfiction articles published in peer-reviewed academic psychology journals and encyclopedias. She has a Ph.D. in psychology from the University of Chicago, and works as a psychology professor at Felician College in New Jersey.

Weblink:

<http://www.ruvaneevilhauer.com/>