

An erasure by Philomela (source text: Ode to a Nightingale by John Keats)
First Appeared in The Journal. Volume 42, Issue 1

sense

O full-throated

O

purple-stained

Fade
dissolve
among

men

Where Beauty cannot keep tender is the

no light

mossy

In embalmed darkness,

the thick wild

haunt

I have been half

born for death,

hungry